

6. What if you only got a certain amount of words each year...

Imagine waking up one day with a massive piece of writing explaining how you only get a certain amount of words each year starting from now. Terror would consume you right!

Imagine walking into school and no-one making even a peep. Children would be crying and begging for their words back, whilst the teachers wouldn't mind the peice and quiet! As you march onto the playground, there is barley anyone speaking. There would be no incidents of calling cockroaches names other wise you would have to suffer the consequences. The kids during lesson time would actually keep silent and none of them would get in trouble for chatting. Dont take this as an advantage though! Thieves can get away very easily without hearing a word from their victims. The 999 service would be absolutely useless as there is no way to communicate. Children won't pass their exams as their teacher can't teach properly. Sly people would get items for cheap as the shopkeepers can't tell you the price.

So you see you should really take time of what you say!
